Brisbane / Meanjin, Australia

11th International Conference on
Legume Genetics and Genomics (ICLGG)

SPONSORSHIP PROSPECTUS

30 September – 3 October 2024

Brisbane Convention &
Exhibition Centre

#ICLGG2024

INVITATION

It is an honour to chair the 11th International Conference on Legume Genetics and Genomics (ICLGG 2024) in Brisbane and promote the sharing of new knowledge, technologies, and ideas to advance legume genetics and genomics for the good of agriculture, the environment and society.

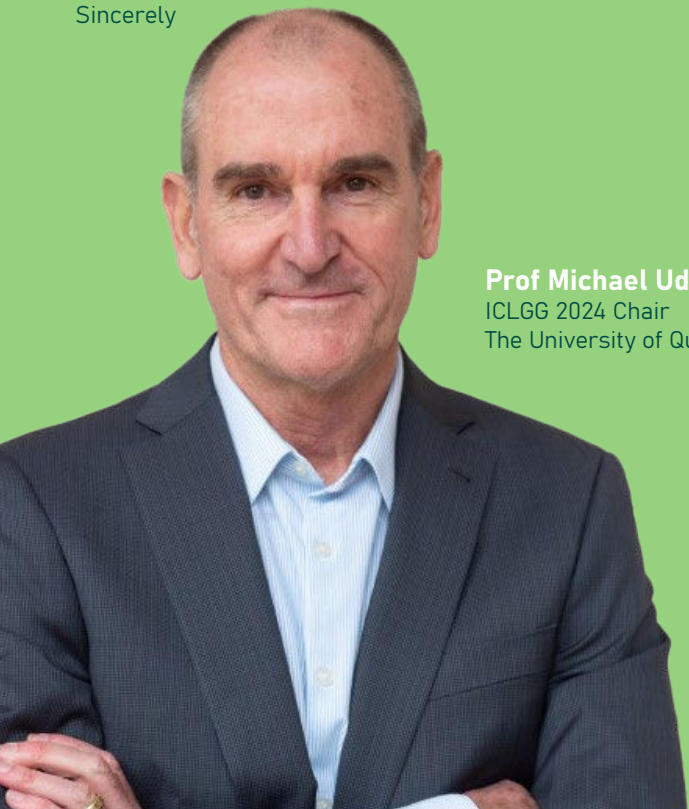

An important aim of this conference series since its inception over 20 years ago has been to connect fundamental and applied aspects of legume research and development, an imperative that will continue at the 11th ICLGG.

Our community has been quick to embrace new technologies over the past two decades and apply them to discover the genetic and genomic basis of important plant processes and valuable traits.

Your sponsorship and involvement in the conference will help us to achieve our aims of bringing together a large and diverse group of participants from around the world who are passionate about understanding legumes and using them to address pressing global issues such as food security, climate change, and environmental health.

Thank you in advance for your support of the conference.

Sincerely

Prof Michael Udvardi
ICLGG 2024 Chair
The University of Queensland

About ICLGG 2024

The International Conference on Legume Genetics and Genomics (ICLGG) series was established in 2002 to bring together researchers working on fundamental and applied aspects of legume genetics and genomics, to help realise the combined potential of these disciplines for the benefit of people and the planet. The ICLGG has become the pre-eminent international conference on legume sciences, bringing together up to 400 researchers and agri-food representatives to discuss advances in the science and application of genetics and genomics of legumes.

In 2024, the ICLGG returns to Brisbane, Australia, where delegates will share the results of their latest work, providing new insight into the amazing world of legume biology while helping to chart a path to legume improvement for food security without environmental harm.

Conference supporter

The Queensland Alliance for Agriculture and Food Innovation (QAAFI) is a research institute of The University of Queensland (UQ), supported by the Queensland Government.

QAAFI's purpose is to solve major challenges in a rapidly changing world by conducting and leading collaborative research, innovation and capacity building through trusted partnerships in agriculture, food, and nutrition.

As one of the few research intensive universities worldwide located in a subtropical environment, UQ is a global leader in agriculture and food science research in subtropical and tropical production systems.

Conference venue

The conference will be held at the Brisbane Convention & Exhibition Centre, located in Brisbane's vibrant Southbank precinct, giving conference delegates convenient access to cafes and restaurants, Brisbane's celebrated Arbour walkway, famous Streets Beach and many public transport options.

Sponsorship opportunities

We aim to ensure that delegates leave the conference feeling inspired and that those who support the ICLGG 2024 conference receive the greatest exposure possible. Please contact the conference organiser, Expert Events, to discuss in detail the following or any other sponsorship opportunities.

Who will be attending?

This conference will bring together up to 400 leading and emerging national and international researchers, educators and agri-food representatives in the field of legume genetics and genomics.

As in the past, we aim to connect leaders in each of these areas with early and mid-career participants to help build careers, establish new collaborations, and advance legume R&D. This is especially important given the five-year break since the last in-person gathering of the ICLGG.

Our aim to be as diverse and inclusive as possible will benefit from diverse sponsorship across the research, education, industry, and technology sectors.

Why become a sponsor?

Connect with your audience from around the world at a face-to-face event in Brisbane, Australia.

Showcase your organisation's services, products and expertise in agri-food technologies.

Establish new and foster existing relationships with leading international scientists and researchers, actively working in the fields of legume science.

Multiple sponsorship opportunities tailored for organisations of all sizes are available and designed to increase your brand awareness.
